XLIBRIS. Paperback. Condition: New. 48 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.1in. Raynette Eitel writes poetry because it comes as naturally to her as breathing . . . and she says, I write because I MUST She has published four books prior to this one, Harsh Country, Earthen Jar, Preludes to an Hallelujah Chord, and My Heart Sings, all published by XLibris. She has received various awards for her poetry. Among these were winning first place for her poem, At the Irish Pub in a Senior Poet Laureate contest in 2011, and first place in the Dancing Poetry contest, where she sat, awestruck, to watch the words of her poem, Imagine the Harvest being danced on stage in San Francisco. Raynette grew up in the Southwest and is a graduate of Colorado College and the University of Colorado. She was a teacher, wife, and mother in Colorado Springs, but always she was a poet. After retiring in Las Vegas, Nevada, Raynette has most enjoyed her time with the Writers Workshop in Sun City Summerlin, has given poetry workshops from time to time, and has taken the stage to recite such poems as The Day the Planes Quit Flying (A memorial to 911) She looks forward to another months stay at Friday Harbor, on San Juan Island, Washington in the summer of 2015, where she will enjoy the simplicity of island life and the delight of morning sun coming in through layers of fog to give her a soft pink beginning to the day. This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from Roseburg, OR, La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
